Chronik und stamm der pfalzgrafen bei Rhein und herzoge in Bayern 1501 ... 1901. (Card 2)

Authorship of the "Chronik" has been erroneously attributed to Hans Kraus von Widenburg. The original "Stammbaum" consists of 12 woodcuttings mounted on three boards measuring in all 102 x 80^{cm}. It contains 257 portraits of members of the House of Wittelsbach and their coats of arms. The only copy known to exist is kept in the Staatsbibliothek of Munich. S. Hietzer (Austrian stammbaum werke, bd. 8, p. 250) believed it to be the work of Ulrich Pöschner; the editor ascribes both "Chronik" and "Stammbaum" to the printer ("Druckwerk von S. Wurm ad laundam") whom he identifies with the wood-engraver Hans Wurm.

Chronique saintongaise.

Tout l'histoire de France (Chronique saintongaise) now first edited from the only two mss., with introduction, appendices, and notes, by F. W. Bourdillon... with prefatory letter by Gaston Paris... London, D. Nutt, 1897.

xiv, 118 p. 22^{mm}.

Parallel texts from an imperfect manuscript in the editor's possession, and an earlier one in the Bibliothèque nationale (fonds français, 8716) & 13th century translation in the Bibliothèque de l'Université de la Sorbonne, from an unknown Latin compilation, which appears to have been mainly composed of the latter history Francorum (Gesta regum Francorum) and the Annales imperiales, with portions of Ekhard's Vita Caroli, the Vita.

Chubb, Thomas, 1670-1747.

An enquiry concerning the grounds and reasons, or what those principles are, on which two of our anniversary solemnities are founded: viz. that on the 30th of January, being the day of the martyrdom of King Charles the First, appointed to be kept as a day of fasting; and that on the 5th of November, being the day of our deliverance from Popery and slavery, by the happy arrival of His late Majesty King William the Third, appointed to be kept as a day of thanksgiving. To which is added, The sufficiency of reason in matters of religion, further considered. Wherein is shewn, that reason, when carefully considered ...

Human nature vindicated: or, A reply to Mr. Beaven's book entitled, Supernatural influences necessary to salvation: being a vindication of the fourth proposition of Robert Barclay's Apology. Wherein is shewn, that man, in his natural capacity, is a moral agent; that he has power, and is at liberty to do both good and evil; and consequently, can render himself either acceptable or displeasing to his Maker. In a second letter to a friend. Humbly offered to the consideration of the people called Quakers. By Tho. Chubb. London, Printed by J. Darby and T. Browne; and sold by J. Noon, etc., M.DCC.XLVII.

The life and legend of the Lady Saint Clare, translated from the French version (1343) of Brother Francis Du Puis, by Charlotte Balfour; with an introduction by Father Cuthbert, O. S. B. C. With 24 illustrations. London, New York etc., Longmans, Green and co., 1910.

21. 134 p. front. 23 pl. (incl. part.), facsim. 1. 20^{cm}.

"The legend here rendered into English is the primitive legend of St. Clare, written about the time of her canonization. At one time it was attributed to St. Bonaventure, but more recently and generally to Thomas of Celano. The authenticity, however, is very doubtful. The present English version has been made from a French translation of the sixteenth century."

Clarendon, Thomas.

An examination into the true seat and extent of the powers of the horse, with a view to their most advantageous application in draught and burthen: in which most of the organic diseases treated by the veterinary are shown to be the consequences of defective balance. With the means of preventing and removing the same, by an improved system of training, and of preserving the powers of the trained animal in their most efficient state, by proper methods of driving and horsemanship. By Thomas Clarendon. Dublin, Hodges and Smith, 1843.

Claridge, John.

The shepherd of Banbury's rules to judge of the changes of the weather, grounded on forty years' experience: by which you may know the weather for several days to come, and in some cases for months. To which is added a rational account of the causes of such alterations, the nature of the wind, rain, snow, &c. By John Claridge, shepherd. A new ed., cor. London, Printed for T. Hunt, E. Chance, & co., 1827.
